Having practiced family law exclusively for over 15 years, Teresa Foster is regarded throughout the Southwest Washington community as one of Vancouver's finest family law attorneys. Teresa's candor, courtroom skills, and ability to rise to a challenge make her a formidable advocate for the clients she serves.

Teresa focuses her practice on complex divorce, including property division that involves high net worth and business assets, as well as complex custody issues, third party custody, and parentage matters.

Teresa has represented hundreds of clients in Washington and Oregon, and has successfully litigated cases in both states. She currently serves clients from our office in Vancouver, WA.

"My approach is to be direct, honest, and realistic with my clients," says Teresa. "I let them know the pros and cons of each decision and the reality in achieving a goal. I am not afraid of a challenge, however, and if a goal is a possibility, I am willing to fight for it."

Teresa's background in social work led to her decision to become a family law lawyer. She feels strongly about protecting the welfare of children and providing tenacious legal representation in child custody matters.

"The law allows me to help people solve challenging problems that affect their families," says Teresa. "My clients know that I will do whatever it takes to protect their most vital interests, both inside and outside of the courtroom."

Knowing that emotions and stress can be overwhelming during a divorce or custody matter, Teresa believes in providing personalized service and support to each of her clients. She gives clients quick responses to their questions and keeps them informed about their case from beginning to end.

When she's not working, Teresa spends time with her partner (who's also an attorney), her two sons, her two Labradoodles, and her horses.

"Every fight that Teresa went into for me, she came out on top. She has been an inspiration and loyal supportive attorney since she first took on my case. I will forever be grateful."

"Teresa went above and beyond for me during years of high-contested litigation. She is meticulous and manages to recall every detail from all parties involved. Teresa will never sugar coat; she is a tell-it-like-it-is, keep it real attorney who will not be intimidated by the opposing side. She strategically kept the upper hand in all matters pertaining to my case without compromising our position and that gave me an overwhelming sense of comfort and peace."
